FlexForce Coach

Boost your organizational outcomes with our education experts working by your side

In times of a global lack of medical professionals, experts like radiographers can handpick where they want to work and they demand advanced education and coaching from their employers. At the same time, good skills are more important than ever to enable quality outcomes. How will you ensure a high level of quality in your staff?

FlexForce Coach is a comprehensive staff development and performance consulting solution provided by experts from Siemens Healthineers. It drives change management in your clinical department and enables standardization of equipment protocols across multiple shifts and locations. A FlexForce Coach also provides equipment and applications training to your radiographers, improving the quality and efficiency of work of an entire department.

Working with a FlexForce Coach increases your attractiveness as an employer through a reputation for taking great care of your workforce. This helps you to retain talent and attract a greater number and higher quality of applicants.

Enable standardization – introduce best practices and optimize equipment protocols across your organization to reduce unwarranted variations and errors whilst boosting financials through our performance consulting

Increase efficiency – provide in-depth equipment and application knowledge to your workforce so they can perform quality exams while increasing their productivity

Improve patient satisfaction – leverage the change management skills of our experts for a lasting impact on clinical care practices

Retain and grow talent – promote employee development to increase your staff retention and employee satisfaction as well as attractiveness to new employees
